Fire which originated from loose papers being blown against the grate caused a great deal of excitement at Clark Hall, the College dormitory, Tuesday morning. An overcoat and suit of clothes belonging to Mr. MeHenry Holbrook were destroyed and the furniture in the room, which was occupied by Mr. Holbrook and Mr. Oscar Galloway on the second floor, was considerably damaged. A large place was burned in the feather bed, and hundreds of snowy feathers swayed gracefully on the smoke-laden breeze.

The flames were confined to one room, and were soon extinguished by the quick work of the Fire Department.

YOUNGSTER GETS
SIX-YEARS SENTENCE

Stole A Locomotive While Intoxicated and Caused Collision Resulting in Many Injuries.

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 23.—In consideration of his youth Ralph I. Jardine, 18 years old, who stole a big mogul locomotive from the South Worcester freight yards on the night of January 3, and started on a joy ride, which culminated in a collision with the New London boat train at Webster, injuring 20 passengers, got off with a six-year sentence in the Superior Criminal Court.

The boy was brought into court a badly scared youngster. A strong plea was made for mercy, and this was not opposed by District Attorney Stone.

It appears that Jardine was intoxicated. He wandered about in search of some instrument of amusement came upon the locomotive, with steam up. He mounted to the cab, experimented with the levers, and started away at a seventy-mile-an-hour clip, with two freight cars bumping the rails behind him.

The charge against him was recklessly endangering lives. He changed his plea to guilty, and will go to the reform school.

M'MANIGAL IS CORROBORATEDGovernment Attorney Says the Probe has also Unearthed Things
the Confessor Knew Nothing About.

Indianapolis, Jan. 23.—"Ortie McManigal's confession concerning the widespread dynamite plots has been more than corroborated and we have unearthed things which McManigal knew nothing about."

James W. Noel, special assistant to the United States District Attorney, so stated Monday in reference to the government's investigation of the dynamite conspiracy. Mr. Noel had just come from a noon conference at which was prepared a long list of many witnesses to the cause.

"Has the government learned anything which it did not expect to learn?" Mr. Noel was asked.

"A great deal more. The investigation has been thorough, with a view of making it reasonably certain that conviction might be had where indictments had been returned."

Attempts to blow up a hotel in Salt Lake City, Utah, in 1909 and 1910 were described before the Federal grand jury Monday in its investigation of the dynamite conspiracy. The witnesses included two police officials of Salt Lake City, a former guard at the Utah State prison, and a tailor who sold clothing to one of the McNamaras.

BEER DECLARED
A COMMODITYRailroads Must Carry it From One
State Into "Dry" Counties of Another State.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Beer is a commodity and railroads must carry it when offered for transportation, from one state into "dry" counties of another state, regardless of the laws of the latter state.

The Supreme Court of the United States made this ruling Monday regarding a proposed shipment from Indiana into "dry" Kentucky counties.

The case arose when the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company refused to carry beer offered by the P. W. Cook Brewing Company at Evansville, Indiana. The railroad declined the shipment because a Kentucky law of 1906 forbade bringing liquor into local option districts.

SENATE VOTES TO RE-COMMIT BILL

Sixteen Democrats and Four Republicans Follow Lead of Louis W. Arnett and Louisville Legislators.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 23.—The County Unit bill drawn in conformity with the provisions of the County Unit plank of the Democratic platform was reported favorably Monday by the County Unit and Liquor Regulations Committee of the Senate, but was re-committed to the committee by a vote of 20 to 16. Sixteen Democrats and four Republicans out-voted fourteen Democrats and two Republicans.

Senator Salmon moved to re-commit the bill to be reported Thursday at 11 o'clock.

Brock Changes His Vote
Senator Brock, a Republican, voted not to recommit the bill and changed his vote.

The Democrats favoring the passage of the bill declared that every Senator was obligated by their party platforms to support this County Unit Bill, and some of the Senators opposing the bill stated that they did not think this bill was constitutional although Senators Moody, Thomas and Graham, all widely known constitutional lawyers, read opinions by the court to sustain the constitutionality of the act.

The Senate lawyers who think the Appellate Court erred in holding the present County Unit Bill constitutional are such widely known attorneys as L. W. Arnett, Mark Ryan, Gus Brown, and E. E. Hogg.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 22.—The County Unit fight came up in the Senate Monday afternoon when Senate bill 18 was reported favorably by Senator Graham from the Committee on County Unit.

Senator Huffaker, of Louisville, said the County Unit Committee had never held a meeting to discuss the bill and as several other County Unit bills had been introduced and not considered. He moved to re-commit the bill.

Senator Thomas said any Democrat who voted to delay this bill was "spitting in the face of the party." In answer to a question he said he never promised in his campaign to take no part in urging the passage of the County Unit bill. He said if he had been elected on a platform opposed to County Unit extension he would resign before he would vote against this bill, after his party had endorsed it.

Senator Lewis Arnett said the rules of the Democratic caucus in Washington provided that where a Senator believed a bill unconstitutional and that his constituents were opposed to it, he was not bound by a party platform or caucus action. He said he had asked for a hearing before the County Unit Committee on this bill and was told that he would be given a hearing, but no hearing was given to him.

WATERED AND SKIMMED MILKSold By Many Dairymen, According to Report of State Pure Food Authorities.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 23.—The state pure food authorities at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station reported Monday to County Attorney Scott Bullitt, of Louisville, sixty-five cases for selling watered or skimmed milk against dairymen supplying Louisville and certain restaurants. These cases resulted from the extensive inspections that have recently been made throughout the whole of the Louisville milk field and other parts of Kentucky.

The sample were collected from the milk depots, the dairymen, the restaurants, the hotels and other places where milk is served, and when a sample was found to be watered or skimmed, further investigation was made to determine who was responsible. About 700 samples were analyzed in Louisville and 65 cases reported for prosecution. In most instances the milk was taken from the dairymen's herds to determine how much water had been added to the milk as supplied by the dairymen's cows.

THREE-YEAR-OLD
CHILD WAS LOSTParents Left Child in Cab, Each
Thinking The Other Had Him in Charge.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cook, of Sixth street, had a thrilling experience a day or two ago, when for more than an hour their little three-year-old son, C. B. Cook, Jr., was lost and his whereabouts unknown to the parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook and their child were returning to their home from a visit to Mr. Cook's mother, Mrs. M. L. Cook, 235 South Limestone street, and took a cab to their home. When they entered the house they missed the child. Mr. Cook had expected his wife to bring the child from the cab, while she thought he had it in his possession. Realizing that the youngster had been left in the carriage, both made a rush to the telephone, and called up the transfer company. The carriage had not yet arrived and for nearly an hour fears of kidnapers, runaway horses and desperate accidents almost crazed the parents, while at the same time the youngster was peacefully enjoying his ride in the cab.

LABORER DIES OF HEART FAILURE

Was Engaged in Friendly Game of Cards, When He Suddenly Fell Over Dead.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 23.—Just after having finished drinking a bottle of Coca Cola, and while engaged in a game of cards with several friends Samuel Sparks, a laborer at the Old Tarr distillery, and whose home is on Jane street, dropped over dead at 11 o'clock Monday night in the saloon of Walter Harper, 933 West High street.

Sparks had no intimation of his approaching death, and was laughing engaged in a social card game with friends when he suddenly fell over on a table. Death was instantaneous, and was supposed to have been the result of apoplexy. A number of men were in the saloon, and the police patrol wagon was called and the body removed to Sparks' home on Jane street, a short thoroughfare which runs off of West High street, near the crossing of the Queen & Crescent railway tracks.

Sparks was about 45 years old, and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mollie Sparks. He was employed as a cattle feeder by Simon Weil at the Tarr distillery in the West End.

PRESENCE OF MIND OF INJURED MAN

Who Was Wedged In Between Two Street Cars, Prevents Explosion and Saves Lives.

Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 23.—"Stand back, boys, don't bring any lights near the gasoline," was the warning of Roy A. Browning, 33 years old, a funeral director, shouting to hundreds of spectators who saw him wedged between two street cars early Monday evening, his right lung penetrated by a broken rib.

The automobile in which Browning and his wife were seated was caught between two cars. Brown-

Germes Spread in Skin

Eczema, Psoriasis and other skin troubles are caused by myriads of germs at work in the skin. Unless these germs are promptly destroyed they multiply rapidly, growing their way deep into the sensitive tissue. This is what causes that awful itch, and what causes a mere rash may grow worse and develop into a loathsome and torturing skin disease with its years of misery.

Don't take any chances! Destroy the germs at the beginning of the trouble with that soothing and cleansing wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema. A 25c bottle will prove this to you.

ing was rolled along between the two cars as if he was a ball. His wife escaped injury.

The gasoline tank on the automobile was wrecked, and, when a fuse in one of the street cars blew out, an explosion followed, wrecking the street cars and putting many spectators in danger. Browning's condition is regarded as critical.

SOUR GASSY UPSET STOMACH REGULATED

Out-of Order Stomach Feels Fine
Five Minutes After Taking a Little Diapepsin

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia or out-of-order Stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking Diapepsin. If your Stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a re-enforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak Stomachs should take a little Diapepsin occasionally and there will be no more Indigestion no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach, and, besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved in five minutes after taking a little Diapepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

AULD LANG SYNE TO BE SEEN HERE

Beautiful Scottish Photo Play Will Be Shown At The Lyric On Wednesday, Matinee and Night.

Auld Lang Syne, to be shown on canvass at the Lyric Theatre Wednesday afternoon and night, is a two reel picture of a picturesque story of the Highlands of Scotland, based upon the sweet and noble sentiment of "Auld Lang Syne."

Two typical Scotch lads, vigorous with the warmth of rockbound friendship, cemented with the association of membership in the same clan, are equally smitten with the blandishments of Jennie, a truly winsome Scotch lassie.

The picture is rich with naturalness; scenery and location are exceedingly real, while the portrayal of Scotch life is most thorough and fascinating.

The picture is deserving of close attention. All parts are most carefully and thoroughly presented. Such scenes as those of George fighting in the firelight are to be especially praised. The portrayal of Scotch life is extremely creditable to all the actors and the story is calculated to fulfill its purpose of establishing the truth of an undying Scotch sentiment.

Taking the picture as a whole it is one of the prettiest in scenery and sentiment that has ever been thrown on canvass.

LIFE TERM FOR DR. WEBSTER

Imposed by Judge, Who Characterizes Slaying of Wife as a Cruel
And Cowardly Crime.

Oregon, Ill., Jan. 23.—Dr. Harry Elgin Webster, sentenced Monday to life imprisonment for the murder of his bigamous wife, Bessie Kent Webster, will be taken to Joliet Prison by Sheriff Delaney Friday to begin sentence. Webster asked to be taken to the prison immediately, but changed his request when his father, mother, and sisters asked for several days to be with him before his imprisonment.

When Webster's trial recently was called, in court here he entered a plea of guilty, and the court fixed Monday on which to sentence him. During the half hour he spent in the courtroom Dr. Webster maintained a calm outward bearing. His relatives were led from the room at the close of the sentence in a hysterical condition.

The Judge characterized the crime as cruel and cowardly.

Those who will be honored will receive their dresses from the hands of the president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. If the present plan is not changed General C. Irvine Walker, Commander-in-Chief of the veterans, his staff and W. G. Mrs. Walter Douglas Lamar, state regent of Georgia and president of Sidney Lanier Chapter, is planning to make this gathering the crowning event of the reunion, from the standpoint of the Daughters. Mrs. Lamar not only has the moral support, but the active co-operation of all members of the chapter of which she is the head. All are working to make the ceremony surpass any of the same character ever held. Announcement has not yet been made as to where the meeting will be held.

Mrs. Lamar and the committee of ladies working with her have several places under consideration and will decide this question at an early date.

NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAY

Reconciliation of General Grant and James G. Blaine.

How the Two Great Men, Estranged for Several Years, Became Friends Again Through the Efforts of Elkins.

By E. J. EDWARDS.

I recently told in this column the story of the manner in which General Grant and James G. Blaine met at the Long Branch railway station at the time of the funeral of President Garfield, rode in the same carriage to the house of national mourning, were seated almost side by side at the funeral and yet absolutely ignored the presence each of the other. There was not the slightest sign of recognition or even the most formal or cold courtesy exchanged between them.

Only a few of the politicians of the eighties knew that General Grant and James G. Blaine had by tact understanding agreed absolutely to ignore the presence of each other whenever they chanced to meet. To these knowing ones the presumption was that the breaking of all relations between the two men was due to the fact that the friends of Blaine prevented the third presidential nomination of Grant at Chicago in 1880 and the friends of Grant prevented the nomination of Blaine at the time. The estrangement of the two men at the time of the Garfield funeral was so complete that no one thought of a reconciliation between them.

Yet less than two years later these two distinguished Republicans were brought together and spent an hour or more in resuming the cordial relations which had existed between them when James G. Blaine was speaker of the house, of representatives and Ulysses S. Grant was president of the United States. I am sure that the story of this reconciliation and the manner in which it was brought about have never been publicly told; in fact, very few of the intimate friends of either Grant or Blaine knew, until after Grant's death, in 1885, that cordial relations had been re-established.

Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia, who recently died while a member of the United States Senate, was one of the very few prominent Republicans who maintained a close personal intimacy with both Grant and Blaine during the period of their personal estrangement. Mr. Elkins used sometimes to say to his friends that nothing was a source of greater sorrow to him than the fact that these two warm friends of his had become absolutely alienated.

Some time in the latter part of the year 1882, or it may have been early in 1883, Mr. Elkins became persuaded that both Grant and Blaine would be glad if a way could be found by which they could be brought into pleasant relations once more. Mr. Elkins said to a member of General Garfield's official family:

"I am sure that General Grant would rejoice if he could make it up with Blaine, and I am certain that Blaine has grieved greatly over the misunderstanding which has interrupted the friendship long maintained with Grant. I am going to bring those two men together, although I don't know exactly how to do it."

"Why don't you invite them to dine with you?" Elkins was asked.
"No, that wouldn't do," was the reply. "Each man would suspect that the other had put me up to that. I think there is a little pride that stands in the way of their reconciliation."

A few days later Mr. Elkins said that he had given the matter much thought and he was satisfied that the only way to bring about the reconciliation was to cause Blaine and Grant to meet as though by pure chance. It was evident to Elkins' confidant that Elkins was planning already what would appear to be an accidental, unexpected meeting between Grant and Blaine. A day or two later Mr. Elkins appeared before his confidant again, and he was as radiant as a child.

"I am the happiest man in Washington," he cried. "I left Grant and Blaine yesterday afternoon sitting side by side, engaged in the most kindly and familiar conversation. You know, Grant came to Washington a few days ago. You may know that Blaine for some time now has been occupied with getting together material for the book which he intends to write, a sort of reminiscence of his life as a member of congress. Those two incidents—Grant's arrival and Blaine's book—gave me the hint for the meeting."

Elkins was asked how he accomplished the meeting so that neither Blaine nor Grant would be suspicious of his intervention.
"No, no, I shall never tell that; those two men must never suspect that they met except by accident," Elkins declared with great positiveness. "If I should tell it to one person how they met I should be likely to tell it to another, and that would spoil the incident."

And so far as I know Elkins never told to anyone how he brought about the meeting between Blaine and Grant—a meeting that resulted in perfect reconciliation, so that from that day forth, until the death of General Grant, the two remained fast friends. Age Limit.
Ellen Terry, the actress, was one day talking about the many women who asked her to help them get on the stage, when she said: "Every woman under 30 imagines that she is an actress. And every actress believes that she is under 30."

THE DANGER OF LA GRIPPE

Fisher, Washington, Kas., says: "I was troubled with a severe attack of la grippe and nothing I used did me any good and I was threatened with pneumonia. A friend, advised me to use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and I got some at once. I was relieved from the very first. By the time I had taken three bottles my la grippe was gone. I believe Foley's Honey and Tar Compound to be the best medicine I ever used and always keep a bottle with me."

METALS ONCE RARE NOW IN COMMON USE.

A few years ago such metals as tungsten, vanadium, silicon, tantalum and many other rare and costly metals were unknown outside of scientific circles, but now we are all familiar with tungsten lamps, which have revolutionized the lighting world, of vanadium steel which had made possible the automobile, and we are quite well acquainted with other new metals, once so rare and unknown.

Only a few years ago many of these new metals were deemed worthless. Their value in the commercial world remained undiscovered and the ores were not mined. In Colorado the miners used to throw away what they called "black-jack," but now they are searching the dump heaps to collect this valuable ore because they recognize it as wolframite or tungsten ore. Tungsten leaped into prominence a few years ago when it was first used for filaments in incandescent electric lamps. It was found that the new metal could be used in place of carbon for the lamp filaments, giving three times the light of the old lamps at the same amount of current, and this new light was almost pure white instead of an orange-red color. Tungsten has also many other valuable uses. In the form of sodium tungsten a fire-proofing of value is produced. Tungsten brought joy to the heart of the housewife in that it fixes dyes so that wash goods will wash. Silk merchants rejoiced for other tungsten salts added weight to silk.

Tungsten steel is extremely tough. Projectiles made from it have penetrated through 14 inches of the best armor plate. Tungsten compass needles are the best on the market.

Tungsten is now mined in Arizona, California, Nevada, Montana, Idaho and Colorado, which produce 60 per cent., of the output. The tungsten belt in Colorado is three miles long and eight miles wide. The market for tungsten has become almost as staple as that of copper, zinc and lead.

A possible rival of tungsten is molybdenum, a metal discovered in 1778, but as yet found in such scant quantities that the uncertainty of the supply makes it commercially second to tungsten.

Tough tantalum has been known for a century, it was not commercially useful until Moissan in 1903 brought it into the limelight through the electric furnace. It is found in the Black Hills of Dakota. The most important use to which tantalum is put is in the manufacture of filaments for incandescent lamps. They were put on the market in Germany in 1905 and by the General Electric Company in the United States in 1906. The tantalum lamp scores on these three points—high efficiency, ability to withstand high currents and whiteness of light.

Vanadium in small quantities is distributed in sandstones and limestone and other rocks. Its greatest value, when alloyed with iron as ferrovanadium, is in the making of steel. Other new metals rapidly coming into everyday use are boron, titanium, chromium, molybdenum, vanium, etc.

The Louisiana Southern Railroad running from New Orleans to a large urban district, will be electrified. This road is 75 miles in length. Electrification of a portion of the Canadian Pacific Railway is said to be planned, the power to come from Adams River, where it is figured that 100,000 horse power is available.

Good Water Pan for Pets

A good water pan for pets or poultry is a round, tin cake-pan, with a cone in the center, commonly known as a "Turkey-head." A stick driven through the cone into the ground makes it impossible for an animal to overturn the pan.—Ladies' Home Journal

Obliging
One's Friends

"No," said the little stenographer, thoughtfully, as she carefully placed the stamp in the corner of the last envelope and then stacked the day's mail. "It isn't that I'm unwilling or anything like that. I like to do things for people occasionally as well as the next one. But if I do it for one I do it for a dozen, for I can't be partial. I hate to, but I'll have to put my foot down and decline to do favors."

The bookkeeper looked up in surprise. "Why—what's—" he began, wondering.

"Well," explained the little stenographer, "last Sunday I took dinner with a friend of mine and during the afternoon she asked if I'd do just a tiny favor for her. She had some programs for her club that she was to make, and it was so hard for her to write them by hand. Besides, her handwriting was dreadful, so would I just as soon run them off on my typewriter? What could I say after eating her dinner? So I've been devoting my noon hours, besides getting down early mornings, this whole week, to 'running off' these simple little programs."

"Then, when I could breathe freely, as I saw the end of the programs coming into view, my friend called me up and asked me if I'd look to see that Mrs. Breuscott's name was spelled right. She was almost sure she had written it 'w' instead of 'u.' And she had—so I rewrote that page of every one of the programs."

"When I finally delivered them she was delighted. She said they were so lovely that she knew the club would always want her to get them up every year, and wasn't it nice that she had a friend who was willing to do a little favor for her once in a while?"

"Then, while I was still cramped with the extra work of the programs, another friend called me up. She said she wanted a copy of a certain song, containing about 40 verses, and she couldn't get it except in book form, and she didn't want to go to that expense, so would I just as soon run over some noon and copy it off in short hand? It would take her so long to write it in regular longhand and it wouldn't take me a minute, she was sure;

"Of course, I did as she requested. I waited around the store half an hour, looking for some one who would be willing to let me copy the song. Then all the time I was copying it the manager stood in front of me and glared at me, for fear I'd run away with the book, I suppose. It was such a pleasant experience!

"Then that friend of mine called me up late in the afternoon, just as I was getting ready to leave the office, to ask me if I'd just as soon make her three copies of the song—I'd already made one copy with a carbon—for she wanted to send away two copies. So I sat down and wrote them off and mailed them."

"Oh, yes, she appreciated it very much. Any time I want to go anywhere, she says—pitifully, for my lack of a regular man escort—she'll be glad to go with me if her husband is out of town, so she can leave home!"

"This morning, while the manager was dictating a very important letter, the phone rang. He looked so exasperated, while I took down from the phone, at the request of this same friend, details of just how many yards of lace and just what pattern to get and what price she wanted to pay and which store to visit to look at the white sweaters that were selling at $5 and to see if they were really a bargain, and if they were, to have one sent out and pay for it and she'd repay me. Since then I have been trembling every time my buzzer rings for fear the manager is calling me to tell me that my services aren't needed any longer."

"By the time I finished her little errands my whole noon hour was gone and I'm as hungry as a bear now, for I haven't had a bite since breakfast."

"I don't blame you a little bit," said the bookkeeper, sympathetically. "It's a shame the way people impose on others, never dreaming that they're asking anything out of the ordinary. Why don't you tell them that you're too busy? I'd never stand for such impositions."

The little stenographer beamed at him—it was good to have some one understand!

"Oh, by the way," he interrupted her as she said good night. "Would you just as soon stop in on your way to the station and send some cut flowers—pick out anything you think would go well with a pink outfit? My sister asked me to do it and I didn't have time this noon. I'll pay you tomorrow, when you know what the price is."

"Oh, of course," replied the little stenographer, weakly. "I'll be glad to."

Probably.

"Does your new assistant do things with spirit?"

"I must say, he does not seem to do anything without it."

A Cinch.

"How did he manage to get elected by such a large majority?"

"He told the voters he was a pledged statesman."

TWELFTH WISCONSIN IN WAF

Company Was Fortunate to Participate in Several Expeditions and Won Much Distinction.

Governor Randall called for the Twelfth Wisconsin some time in September, 1861, and it was organized at Camp Randall in October, with Col. George E. Bryant in command and De Witt C. Poole, now in the regular army, as lieutenant colonel, both of whom had served in the First Wisconsin, writes Lieut. Col. J. A. Watrous U. S. A., in the Milwaukee Sentinel.

"Who shall be major?" was asked. The governor was disposed to go to one of the regiments that had gone out soon after Lincoln's first call for that officer.

Early in September the Second Wisconsin infantry moved from Camp Kalamazoo, then several miles from the center of Washington, but now a beautiful portion of the capital city, to Chain Bridge, and from there across the Potomac river into Virginia, where it was expected that the enemy was preparing to fight.

It was customary for officers in that vicinity to ride out toward the Confederate line to investigate and see the sights. One warm afternoon Capt.

A Shell Exploded in Company I.

William E. Strong of Company F, Second Wisconsin, rode out. When he came back he had a blood curdling story to tell that attracted much attention. He had suddenly run into a squad of several Confederates and, single handed and alone, had whipped them, killing one or two and wounding others. As you know, that was early in the war and an incident of that kind, at that time, was a big thing.

Governor Randall and other Wisconsin people had seen the accounts of Captain Strong's encounter with the enemy and it did not take long to decide that he should be major of the new regiment then forming, and he was appointed. The major was soon detailed as an inspecting officer and on special duty most of the time, reaching the responsible place of inspector general of the Seventeenth corps. At the end of the war he was a brevet brigadier general.

The Twelfth left Madison the second week in January, 1862, and went direct to Weston, Mo., traveling from Hannibal, 236 miles, in open freight cars when the thermometer indicated 15 degrees below zero, and there was no fire in the cars. It did a great deal of guard duty in Missouri and Kansas, and participated in various expeditions until May of that year, when it went to Tennessee. It was its fortune to participate in several important raids and to be assigned to responsible positions in that state during the next three months. In these raids the Twelfth ran up against the enemy several times and won a good name. When the Vicksburg campaign came the Twelfth took its place with the attacking force and was on duty until Pemberton's surrender, and then joined Sherman in his campaign against Jackson. Colonel Bryant was in command of the brigade. From the capture of Jackson until the opening of the campaign in 1864 the Twelfth kept up its reputation as a raider and a guarder of railroads, frequently getting into hot skirmishes, losing a considerable number of men. At the affair at Bolton station, during Sherman's Meridian expedition, a shell exploded in Company I, killing one man and wounding five others.

The regiment re-enlisted in March, 1864. At the expiration of 30 days in Wisconsin it was ordered to the front and joined the army on the way to Atlanta, June 8, and from that time until the end of the campaign was almost constantly close to the front line of battles. The losses of the regiment from the time it joined Sherman in June until July 14, were eight killed and 16 wounded. The part taken by the Twelfth at what was then called Bald Hill, but now known as Leggett Hill, in honor of an Ohio general who commanded the division, gave that regiment a test that few regiments ever underwent.

EARLY CLOSE IS PREDICTED

In Government's Side of Case Against The Indicted Chicago Packers.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—United States District Attorney James H. Wilkerson Sunday predicted that the Government's side of the case against the indicted Chicago packers would be concluded within three weeks. Investigators for the Government have submitted to Mr. Wilkerson comparisons between testimony given at this trial by certain witnesses and that given before the Federal grand jury which have investigated the packers' cases.

This action, it is said, was prompted by the apparent faulty memories of witnesses on matters considered important by the Government. Mr. Wilkerson declined to discuss this phase of the matter. It was intimated, however, that action against the witnesses was under consideration.

MONTGOMERY FAIR DATES

Are Fixed For Week of July 30 to August 3 By Directors.—Officers Elected.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Jan. 12.—At the meeting of the Montgomery County Fair Directors the dates for the fair for the coming meeting were fixed for the week of July 30 to August 3, inclusive. Mr. Charles G. Thompson, the well-known wholesale grocery man, elected president and also treasurer while Mr. W. Cliff Hamilton, was re-elected secretary. The directors state that it is their purpose to offer the most liberal premiums for show rings and will use every effort to make this fair the biggest and best county fair in the state.

Only four jury trials were held in Circuit Court last week, and the petit jury was dismissed by Judge Benton, while the grand jury finished their labors Saturday evening. In the case of the Commonwealth against Bige Wells, of Bath county and Ben Johnson, of this county, resulting from a horse trade with a colored man from Bath county, Wells and Johnson were each fined $100 and costs, and the animal returned to its original owner. Court adjourned Saturday, the term was one of the shortest in years.

Mr. Harry F. Howell, one of the prominent young farmers in Montgomery county, is being urged to get into the race for the Democratic nomination for sheriff of this county. News from Washington received here that Senator Bradley will endorse Major A. T. Wood, of this city for reappointment as State Pension Agent was very gratifying to the friends of Major Wood.

Charles Duham, Lovington, Ill. has succeeded in finding a positive cure for bed wetting. "My little boy wet the bed every night clear thro' on the floor. I tried several kinds of kidney medicine and I was in the drug store looking for something different to help him when I heard of Foley's Kidney Pills. After he had taken them two days we could see a change and when he had taken two thirds of a bottle he was cured. This is about six weeks ago and he has not wet in bed since."

RED CROSS DAIRY FARM

Dr. M. S. Browne Has Fifty Head of Fine Cattle Shipped Here And Fine Machinery Installed.

Since the opening of 1912 Dr. M. S. Browne has bought about fifty head of cattle; Jerseys, Holsteins and grades, and has been receiving, by rail, from the great dairy regions of the Middle West, machinery, mills, shredder, ensilage cutter, engines, separators and appliances necessary to the complete equipment of a modern, up-to-date dairy plant; capable of furnishing "certified milk" products, and is now about ready to have such a dairy put in operation at the old Karsner homestead, near the city, and on the Colby pike, on his 250 acre farm, known as "The Griggsby-Karsner Place."

None but young, vigorous and healthy, tuberculin-tested cattle, capable of producing the highest grade of milk, will be permitted on this farm; which, for the future, is to be devoted to the production of high-class milk, for the supply of Winchester's milk drinkers. The owner has the promise of the aid of Dr. Robt. Graham, head of Veterinary Science and Serum production at State College, and was aided by Dr. E. S. Good, head of Animal Husbandry, especially in selecting registered Holsteins.

Mr. Wm. Abney, an active young business man of large experience, has leased the above place for a term of years, and will run it in conjunction with the owner. For the present, his brother, Mr. Chas. Abney, a practical sanitary dairyman, aided by his wife, will have the management, and invites all prospective patrons, as well as all persons interested in securing a pure milk supply for Winchester, to visit and inspect the premises, cows, stables, water supply, feed, grazing lots, milk room, etc., which will be open to the public after 6 a. m. Monday, January 15. Also, after this hour all orders for cream, whole milk and butter-milk given over Home phone 899-X, will receive prompt attention as they shall be ready to open up the new "Red-Cross Dairy Farm" for business by that day.

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS

always give satisfaction because they always do the work. J. T. Shelmut, Bremen, Ga., says: "I have used Foley Kidney Pills with great satisfaction and found more relief from their use than from any other kidney medicine, and I've tried almost all kinds. I can cheerfully recommend them to all sufferers for kidney and bladder trouble." Foley Kidney Pills will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. No medicine can do more.
